Ode to Autumn

Where are the songs of Spring? Ay, where are they?

Think not of them, thou hast thy music too,—

While barred clouds bloom the soft dying day,

And touch the stubble-plains with rosy hue;

Then in a wailful choir the small gnats mourn

Among the river shallows, borne aloft

Or sinking as the light wind lives or dies.

Heatherhome Bulbs

For Fall Planting

THE offer within these covers constitutes the most complete list of desirable bulbous flowers in America and contains some of the choicest introductions of recent age, some of which are offered now for the first time. This has been accomplished through our connections with the renowned growers all over the world.

The quality of our bulbs are not only the "Cream of Holland," but from every corner of the globe as well.

We do not stock these bulbs but import these especially to order and for this reason we can only promise full delivery if the order is in our possession not later than July 15th if possible.

As by this method we have no risk of surplus we are in position to offer the choicest quality of bulbs at remarkably reasonable figures.

But at no time do we sacrifice quality.

The Twentieth Century Method of Growing Bulbs

For the House and Garden

By Maurice Fuld

In order not to take up the valuable space in this book by what would necessarily be abbreviated cultural directions, we have decided to issue a special booklet entitled as above. This booklet will contain real up-to-date and detailed cultural direction of every specie of bulbs which we offer, and will in some instances constitute radical departures from the usual methods of the past.

It will be brim full of valuable information, and will be ready for distribution in

J U L Y

On account of the heavy expense in connection with publishing such a book, we are compelled to ask a fee of 50 cents for each copy, but this amount is refunded when an order for bulbs is received; or, we will mail free a copy of this book with every order for bulbs.

Please Note

Orders for bulbs selected from this book should be in our possession by July 15th, 1914 if possible.

Deliveries will be made from August until October according to the special selected.

Our prices are net f.o.b. New York all duty paid and guaranteed to be sound and of superior quality.

Any variety furnished by us and proven untrue will be replaced free of charge the following season.

No order will be accepted for less than six bulbs of any one kind, unless the bulbs are offered at the single price.

Darwin Tulips

The Tulip of Today and the Tulip of Tomorrow

No other bulbous flower was ever received with greater acclaim than truly this "Queen of All Tulips." In her royal splendor she outshines all her companions, and with her majestic appearance she wins the admiration of all flower lovers and instant approval of those who see it for the first time.

"Darwins" are a class of Tulips which flower long after the other tulips have flowered, and in the vicinity of New York are at their best between May 15th and May 30th. They are slow in developing and, therefore, last much longer. The truly gigantic flowercups are borne on stout straight stems, which rise far above a broad foliage and which uncommonly attain a height of 2 to 3 feet. The flowers are unicolored and have as their charm a base of a different color. To step into the garden at the noon hour and peek into the cups of Darwin Tulips is a feast to the eye, wondrous to behold, never to be forgotten. In the garden they may be planted as regiments in massive beds, but more artistically in proper color arrangement in irregular groupings as a ribbon to shrub borders or as clumps in hardy borders. They are hardy and may be left in the ground for at least three years in succession. To take their place during summer while they are dormant sow Lavatera in their place after the flowers have gone by, and they can then be left undisturbed while no vacancy is formed by their sleep.

For pot culture they are splendid and are just the ideal Tulip to grow for Easter.

Full cultural directions will be found in "The Twentieth Century Method of Growing Bulbs," a very complete publication on the growing of all bulbs either for the garden or for the house which has been especially written by our Mr. Maurice Fuld, and which will be mailed free to every purchaser.

Please Note.—We cannot accept orders for less than six bulbs of any one kind unless otherwise noted.

Please Order before July 15th.

Rembrandt Tulips

This new class of late Tulips is an offspring of the Darwins. They are identical in character, forms, habits and other virtues, and differ only in one feature, namely, in colorings. All flowers are either striped, feathered, blotched or penciled and are wonderfully beautiful.

In massive clumps in front of shrubbery they are a picture and for cut purposes they excel all other tulips.

Cottage or May Flowering Tulips

A class of Tulips which are fairly tall, are massive in texture, produce enormously large flowers and appear just previous to the Darwins. They may be used for garden bedding or shrubbery. In this class we have all colors and shades, and for this reason many varieties can be used advantageously in blending with Darwin Tulips to create artistic color blendings.

New Varieties

The following are all of recent introduction and a few of these are offered now for the first time.

Species of Tulips

Exquisite for their dainty or rich color, their fantastic or rather artistic form and their peculiar charms. Interesting because they are natives of Asia Minor and Central Asia, and found there in the valleys and on the slopes. Valuable because they constitute one of the hardiest classes of tulips and, therefore, are ideal for hardy borders, rockeries, woods or naturalizing. The petals are usually pointed or reflexed. The foliage differs materially from the regular kinds, as some are almost threadlike. Easy of cultivation, and where ideal conditions exist they will readily increase and be permanent.

	Doz.	100	1000
Australis. Yellow shaded brown, sweet scented.....	$.65	$4.50
Clusiana. One of the daintiest colored and most useful tulips. The slender stem grows 10 to 12 inches long and carries a long narrow lily-like flower of a delicate pink, broadly margined white; inside pure white with violet base. For cutting we do not know of a more exquisite flower or one which would produce a more charming effect. Can be readily forced.....	.50	3.50	$28.00

Sprengeri.	Mrs. Francis King in her description of this flower says: While among the yellow tulips, Sprengeri, the latest of all tulips to bloom, must not be overlooked. To be sure it is not a yellow; it is an orange scarlet and thereby related to the yellows. This tulip I have growing among close packed roots of a pearl-gray German Iris. The two come into flower simultaneously. The tulip is quite as tall as the iris and the two flowers are strikingly good together. Sprengeri grows taller with me than any other tulip. It is a persistent grower, too, appearing year after year as do almost no others.....	2.75	20.00
Tubergeniana.	One of the largest flowered tulips in existence. Brilliant vermilion with sharply defined black base. The flowers resemble a monstrous red lily and when seen at noon present a most marvelous sight. Flowers about May 15th and is showy among lower evergreens. Height, 14 inches. Each, $1.00.....	10.00

Parrot Tulips

A very interesting class of tulips. Their name has been derived from the colorings of the flowers. They are late in blooming and have flowers with cut and fringed petals. While the flowers are large, the tall slender stems are not stout enough to support them, and for this reason they are best suited for the shrub or hardy border. Parrot Tulips can never be guaranteed a flower to every bulb, and on account of this should be planted thickly in masses.

Single Early Tulips

The gayest of our garden flowers in the early spring. They are used to produce a blaze of blossom for two weeks toward the latter part of April and beginning of May. They are planted by themselves as regiments, and when they have passed by they are taken up to make room for our summer flowers.

This treatment pays no heed to their individual beauty or form. Each plant is considered only as contributing to a great mass of color, and certainly these masses of color are very splendid.

They are now so plentiful and inexpensive that every garden can be made glorious with little outlay.

We wish to emphasize the fact that our bulbs are the choicest to be had in Holland, and only owing to the fact that we have no risk of surplus are we able to offer such exceptional quality at such remarkably reasonable prices.

For growing in pots for house blooming during the winter months this class surpasses all others, and such varieties as are especially suited for this purpose are marked with this illustration (★).

Some of the older sorts, such as "Artus," "Jagt von Delft" and others, have outlived their usefulness and will for this reason not be found in this offering, but in their place we offer sorts that are worthy of their title and a satisfaction to grow.

Please Note

Among the foregoing list of Single Early Tulips we offer the following varieties, which flower from 5 to 10 days later than all the others, and which, therefore, should be combined among themselves, or should be planted by themselves. We mention this to prevent disappointments.

Couleur Cardinal, Golden Horn, Sarah Bernhardt, Rose Luisante, White Swan.

The "Heatherhome" Mixture

OF

Single Early Tulips

The average, yes, the greater part, of all mixtures of tulips, offered in America are the outcasts of Holland.

To begin with, they are undersized bulbs and are blended from diseased and unworthy varieties. By extensive trials made in the past we have repeatedly proven this to ourselves, and we were determined with our first offering to introduce to the American gardener what will prove the greatest delight in his whole garden experience.

Not only will the size of our bulbs be equal to the best in our named list, but the blending will be made from the most select and choicest varieties, combining every shade in existence and using only such varieties which will flower together, and which will grow almost to equal height.

Truly a quality mixture.

Our Summer Specialty: Perennial Seeds

Double Early Tulips

Double Tulips follow the single tulips in time of blooming, extend the flowering season and last much longer in bloom. Some of the newer sorts, in which our offer abounds, are equal to the choicest paeonies, and the writer has often wondered why such magnificent flowers should not be found in every better garden. Many a morning I have spent in silent admiration gazing at these beauties and watching them spread their petals to unfold their grandeur. How well I was repaid for my patience!

We all see much grace in single flowers, but nevertheless, I revere the double Tulip when it revels in its blaze of glory.

The Twentieth Century Method Of Growing Bulbs for the House and Garden

By MAURICE FULD

In order not to take up the valuable space in this book by what would necessarily be abbreviated cultural directions, we have decided to issue a special booklet entitled as above. This booklet will contain real up-to-date and detailed cultural directions for every specie of bulbs which we offer, and will in some instances constitute radical departures from the usual methods of the past.

It will be brim full of valuable information, and will be ready for distribution in

July

^F On account of the heavy expense in connection with publishing such a book, we are compelled to ask a fee of 50 cents for each copy, but this amount is refunded when an order for bulbs is received; or, we will mail free a copy of this book with every order for bulbs.

Please Order before July 15th.

Dutch Hyacinths

There seems to be a diversity of opinion as to the beauty of a Hyacinth. Such attributes as too stiff, too fat, too plump, too statuary-like or too monotonous are freely found in books dealing with the subject, and I have often wondered why a real lover of flowers could not see some beauty in all flowers and forget his personal antipathy. We as humans do not differ much from some of the flowers; not all of us are handsome, yet we may have virtues totally overtowering all beauty could endow us with. And so it is with the Hyacinth. She may not have the grace of the tulip, nor the elegance of the daffodil, but she possesses one virtue not shared by either of the others, namely, a delicious fragrance. For that, in my estimation, she might readily be envied by both.

The Hyacinth attracts me to the garden, for it is the first perfume of spring, and it is the only flower which can boast of the power of appearing in the four main colors, namely, Red, White, Blue and Yellow. But, apart from this sentiment, I find a distinctive beauty in that perfect bell, and in the artistic shades of pinks, lavender, violets and buffs which we cannot produce in our gardens unless we employ Hyacinths. There is still another reason why we should welcome them, for they are the first of the showy spring flowers, preceding the tulips and daffodils.

The "Heatherhome" Quality

Just as there is a diversity of opinion as to the beauty of this flower, so there is equal disagreement as to what constitutes "the ideal quality" of the bulbs.

Hyacinth bulbs are offered from Holland in the following grades:

1. Mother bulbs.
2. Real first size.
3. Seedsmen first size, which in reality are second size.
4. Second size, named Bedding, which is really third size.
5. Mixtures, which are really fourth size.
6. Dutch Romans or Miniature.

Mother bulbs are the exceptional mammoth bulbs, of which only a few are found in a field, and for which a very high price is asked, which is reasonable and natural. But this does not constitute a proof that they are the best bulbs to use, and we have the courage to say that they are not. Mother bulbs invariably are overgrown, and instead of producing one perfect spike, they produce two, three or more, but imperfect spikes, and the whole appearance of the plant speaks of too much prosperity.

The perfection of a Hyacinth flower can only be produced through a single spike, growing erect, where every bell is perfect in outline, and as large as it can possibly be grown.

Such bulbs are known as "Perfect First Size." They are sound, plump, heavy and sure to give satisfaction.

Special Quality Hyacinths for Massing in Gardens

Where great masses of any one variety are required for bedding in the garden, the foregoing quality may be found too expensive, and to meet such exigencies we recommend what is known as "Second Size Bulbs." They are equally plump and sound, but smaller. We can furnish in this size all such varieties, which are prefixed with (G), at the following remarkably low pricesPer 100, $4.00; per 1000, $37.50; per 10,000, $350.00

Mixtures of Shades

To meet the popular demand for inexpensive bedding Hyacinths we offer the following mixtures of shades:

- (1) Red, (2) Pink, (3) Pure White, (4) Blush White, (5) Light Blue, (6) Dark Blue, (7) Yellow, and (8) All Shades Blended.
Per 100, $3.50; per 1000, $30.00; per 10,000, $275.00

Please Note

All the foregoing sorts of Hyacinths are of the Single flowering form only, nor do we wish ever to offer the Double sorts, as they are very unsatisfactory.

Our Summer Specialty: Perennial Seeds

Roman or French Hyacinths

These are not suitable for garden work, as they are not hardy, but are splendid for growing in pots, pans or flats in the house or conservatory, and by timely planting can readily be had in bloom by Thanksgiving. From a single bulb are produced from three to five graceful slender flower stems which are dressed with loosely arranged medium-sized bells. Splendid for cutting and exquisitely scented.

Exceptional Novelty Gladiolus Atrovioleaceus

A specie which is found growing wild on the mountains of Egypt. It flowers there in December and January. When it becomes dormant the bulbs are collected, and they are due to arrive in America during the month of July.

The foliage is very fine and resembles the freesia in habit, form and character. The slender wiry flower stem grows to a height of 18 to 24 inches, and is completely dressed with elegant violet blue flowers which are blotched white in the throat. The whole spike can be had in bloom at one time. They should be potted instantly when received and stored away in a cool shaded place. Brought into the conservatory in October and grown in moderate heat they can be had in bloom for Christmas, but the longer they are allowed to remain in the rooting storage, the stronger the spike and the larger the flower.

If planted in cold frames and shaded during the summer and protected with glass during the winter they are a mass of bloom in April.

They can also be planted out of doors in the garden and protected during the winter with a 6-inch cover of leaves, and thus treated they will come into bloom the end of May or beginning of June.

Thus it is the earliest of all Gladiolus to bloom. The bulbs are naturally very small, but nevertheless produce elegant spikes of flowers.

Delivery in July

Per doz., $1.00; per 100, $6.50; per 1000, $60.00

Seaverge, Newport, R. I., January, 1914

Gentlemen—I have great pleasure writing you regarding the new blue Gladiolus Atrovioleaceus for forcing. I had them in bloom for Christmas. The deep blue color with the much lighter throat makes them very attractive. Their average was from five to eight flowers to a stem, almost two feet high. I shall certainly continue to grow them in the future, especially for their color and light effect when cut.

Yours truly,

ERNEST PHILLIPS

Daffodils and Narcissi

What a wealth of glorious thoughts enter our minds when we hear the word "Daffodils." When we see the daffodils in the gardens we say a last farewell to winter, and as April meets May those who have thoughtfully prepared during the fall will glory in their showers of gold, and the smiling, enchanting faces of the ever-rippling Jonquils and Daffodils. The heart of man must indeed be made of stone if a mass of daffodils planted by the woodside, or the brook, in the border or under trees, near pines, does not make him rejoice anew in the rejuvenation of nature and remember his childhood days when in field and woods he rapturously sought the first flowers of spring. What a wealth of material the daffodils offer us for the garden, the fields, the woods, the hills and the valleys, and everywhere that we seek the verdure and the golden dewdrops.

Yellow, to the writer, is particularly welcome in the early spring and late in the fall; for it denotes wealth and glory. A season of plenty. Begin with the golden Crocus, follow this with the richest of primroses (Primula veris Superba), and then feast on one steady succession of the following flowers: Daffodils, Golden Sweet Alyssum, S. E. Tulip Ophir d'Or, Late Tulip Flava and Bouton d'Or, Iceland Poppies, Buttercups, Doronicum and Coreopsis. When the summer is waning greet the most graceful of all sunflowers: Helianthus Orgyalis, the pure yellow Gaillardia, yellow dahlias and, last of all, the golden Chrysanthemum.

The word "Daffodil" is generally misapplied by the average amateur. Some call all double forms of trumpet Narcissi Daffodils, and all single forms Jonquil. While it is the title for both, "Jonquils" is a name which is erroneously applied to a miniature form of trumpet "Narcissi," while the word "Narcissus," stands with the beginner for nothing more than the Poet Narcissus. I have repeatedly observed when Jonquils were asked for in seed stores, that through the clerk's mistake the miniature Jonquils were furnished, with the result that the buyer was disappointed.

We have, therefore, explained at some length the reason for classifying the different Narcissi and hope thus to prevent the usual disappointments.

Daffodils are one of the easiest of flowers to grow for the house, and particularly if grown in the prepared fiber which we offer and furnish.

To grow in the garden always combine them with the lovely Primula veris Superba, the most wonderful golden Primrose.

All our bulbs are single nosed, sound and plump. We do not favor the double nosed or divided bulbs except in a few isolated instances.

The Pheasant's Eye Narcissus

The most popular of all garden Narcissi, and often used by the hundred thousands for naturalizing in fields, meadows or woods. It is the one flower which every one seems to call Narcissus, and this very title has lead to numerous disappointments in the past. All daffodils are equally Narcissus, and unless the word "Poet" is added to it, the seedsman invariably furnishes the "Ajax" type, and in consequence there is disappointment to follow. Although this class is used in masses for outdoor decoration, many of the sorts offered here are splendid for pot growing.

They are distinguished by their snowy white perianth and flattened yellow crown, more or less deeply colored with scarlet and crimson.

Small Flowered Daffodils

The fact that the following varieties are rather miniature in size does not detract from their value, for they are just ideal for rockeries, borders and pots, and some of them are extremely beautiful, for beauty often expresses itself more forcibly in small flowers than in those of mammoth proportions.

Polyanthus Narcissus

By the French people they are known as "Tazzetta," and are easily recognized, as the flowers appear in great numbers clustered on a stem.

Being natives of Southern France, they are not hardy, but used for growing in the house extensively. The flowers have a powerful fragrance, often more so than desired.

The bulbs can be delivered in August, and if planted then flowers may easily be produced for Thanksgiving day.

We offer only a few of select choice varieties.

Doz. 100 1000

Paperwhite Grandiflora. Enormous clusters of pure white flowers.

This is the most popular variety, easiest to grow and earliest to bloom. When grown on pebbles in water they are far superior to the "Chinese Lilies," as they never fail and invariably come to bloom within six weeks from the day of planting. Keep in the dark for two weeks and then place in a light cool room. The cooler the room, the stronger the flower. Buy your full winter's supply early in the season and store in cool cellar. They will keep till March and they can be had in flowering succession from Thanksgiving until Easter. We furnish extra large bulbs only.....$

Poetaz Narcissus

A new race of quite recent introduction, a cross between the Poet class and the Polyanthus type, with the result that in this new class we have stems which produce from 3 to 8 enormous flowers, often larger than the "Pheasant's Eye, and which are fully as hardy as the "Poet." In addition, the powerful fragrance of the Polyanthus class is so subdued that one is reminded of the fragrance of the gardenia. The flowers in bud form have all the appearance of a bud of a gardenia, and the unfolding is exactly alike. If grown out of doors a bed of these produces a dense mass of flowers. For pot growing they are of easiest possible culture.

Spring Flowering Crocus

"THE HARBINGER OF SPRING"

When the bright cheery faces of the Crocus make their appearance all gloom of winter is gone and even snowstorms which follow can never make us realize that spring is not with us. Millions of Crocus bulbs are planted each year in lawns or other natural surroundings, but seldom ever has the gardener considered quality in these bulbs.

The usual quality of bulbs which are bought are not worthy the name of this beautiful flower, for not one-third make their appearance the following season. At this rate the bulbs are high priced. A good Crocus bulb should produce from 4 to 8 flowers, and only when these good bulbs are used can one be sure of a natural increase and a permanency.

During the last five years wonderful new Crocus have been produced. In size they equal the smaller tulips, and in colors we can offer now the first approach to pink and red and many other desirable art shades.

Crocus are very attractive when grown in shallow dishes with pebbles and water.

Fall and Winter Flowering Crocus

This class of flowers is a fairly unknown quantity in this country. For meadows and fields, woods or borders; in fact, where you would wish to naturalize, this class of flowers is of inestimable value. What is more exciting than winter flowers out of doors? The crocus gives us the first cheer in the spring and it also gives us the last farewell in the fall. The bulbs must be planted fairly early in September.

Of the following varieties, the flowers only are produced in the fall, while the foliage appears the following spring.

	Doz.	100	1000
Colchicum Autumnale Major (commonly called Meadow Saffron).
The large rosy lilac blossoms appear in clusters of from 4 to 8 flowers from late September until November, and are exceedingly attractive if planted through myrtle, for the myrtle foliage acts as a ground cover. The foliage which appears in the following spring is quite large and can be cut without injuring the permanency of the bulb. The bulbs, even left dormant, will flower, and when placed on a saucer mystify anyone who does not know this flower. If planted in meadows the flowers appear after the second crop of hay has been cut, and beautify the landscape at the most opportune time of the year.

Fall Flowering Bulbous Flowers

In addition to the fall flowering Crocus there are a number of beautiful species which flower in the fall and rarely are ever seen in this country, and which when known will be sought eagerly, for nothing seems to me more welcome than the new flower in the fall.

	Doz.	100	1000
Sternbergia Macrantha. A yellow Amaryllis, which is perfectly hardy, and which flowers in October. The flowers are of the size of Zephyranthus or Fairy Lily.
	.90	6.00	50.00
Cyclamen Europæum. A perfectly hardy cyclamen which is most picturesque on rockeries or in nooks of the hardy border. The leaves are beautifully marked, while the pink flowers appear in October.

Three New Achimenes. Novelty of 1914

We have the privilege of announcing the exclusive distribution of the following new Seedling Achimenes, which were produced on one of the leading private estates in New England. The producer, a renowned hybridizer, has given years to the improvement of this flower, and we are proud of being again selected as the distributing centre for such an important novelty of strictly American origin.

The following new Achimenes are a remarkable advance over the best of the older sorts, as the flowers in the average measure 2½ inches across, being nearly twice as large. They possess greater substance and are exceedingly free in blooming.

As Achimenes are summer-flowering plants, they deserve a prominent place in every conservatory; particularly desirable for summer conservatories, such as at Newport, Lenox and Bar Harbor.

Magnifica. A tall growing plant with magnificent flowers of sky blue with white throat.

Swansonii. Mauve, mottled blue and a white throat.

Dainty Queen. Pure white with an effective blue blotch.

The above three novelties in strong plants, deliverable NOW.

Per dozen, $2.50; per 100, $20.00

Standard Achimenes

The following selection constitutes the very best sorts from the complete existing list of European offerings, but we wish to emphasize the fact that the bulbs we offer are American grown, much superior to the quality usually sent from Europe and in healthier condition.

Margherita. Pure white, large flowers.

Ambroise Verschaffelt. Large white, veined with lilac.

Galathea Improved. Violet, large flowers.

The foregoing three sorts in plants now Per doz., $1.50; per 100, $10.00

Calochortus

Mariposa Lily or Butterfly Tulip

These magnificent flowers are natives of California and deserve a closer acquaintanceship with all flower lovers. Although they are natives of America, they are far better known in Europe, and to the old country we must look for the supply of these flowers. They are best grown in pots for the house, as they are not hardy in the North. The hooded flowers are borne on very slender stems and when the petals part they show us a picture of exquisite beauty. The dark blotches on the different petals give the whole flower a resemblance to a butterfly; hence its name.

Freesia

This lovely flower is undoubtedly the most popular of all the bulbous flowers grown in the house, for the reason that in addition to its easy culture it has the great virtue of being deliciously fragrant. As a pot plant or for cutting it is invaluable, but should never be grown in the garden.

The great secret of success for house culture spells—timely planting. No Freesia should be planted after August.

The Purity Freesia

Of rather recent origin, this flower proves a great acquisition, and is distinguished by its extremely stout, long stalk, its robust foliage, enormous flowers and a purity of color, which has never been known before. If apparent at all, the yellow spot so prominent in the common Freesia is but slightly seen way down in the throat of the flowers. The flowers open wider and present altogether a more conspicuous appearance. We offer home grown.

One of the ideal subjects to naturalize in woods, shady borders or in moist situations. The hood-like checkered flowers are not only attractive, but extremely interesting, and we are pleased to offer several new shades. We do not recommend them for pot culture.

Gerbera Jamesoni Hybrida

A Novelty of Extraordinary Importance

Offered by us now for the first time.

The Barberton Daisy, which has always been the envy of gardeners, has been known for a century in one color only, namely, an orange scarlet.

We now offer to the gardening public not only a series of entirely new colors, but flowers twice as large as the specie, borne on longer stems and in plants, which give immediate results.

For the benefit of those who do not know this flower we present herewith the following word picture: From a set of noble leaves, which have a leathery texture, are the shape of an elongated oak-leaf, grayish green on surface and silver colored on the reverse, appear in uninterrupted succession leafless flower stems of rigid wiry character 15 to 24 inches long, which terminate in a most perfect, ribbon-leaved daisy, with an exceedingly small and refined center of the same color as the petals.

The "Gerberas" are not only capital material for the hothouse, because they flower continuously all winter, and when cut the flowers will last eight days in water, but they have a still greater value as a garden flower. They are classified as a half-hardy perennial, and if wintered in cold frames under the protection of sash, and planted out into the garden in spring, they will present a picture in the garden which is unequalled by any other flower.

Delivery in November

Gladiolus Cardinalis or Nanus

A winter flowering strain of slender growth with beautiful orchid-like flowers which can only be grown to perfection in a hothouse or conservatory. The bulbs are delivered in October to November, when they should be planted in flats and stored in the cold frame. They cannot stand quick forcing and should never be brought into bloom until April or May, when the real beauty of this flower may be seen to advantage.

The individual flowers are very large and all flowers show a distinct elongated blotch, surrounded by a different colored frame on the three lower petals of the flowers. From 3 to 5 flowers are usually open on the stem and for cutting they by far excel their giant sisters. We present for the choice of the critical flower lover an unrivalled collection of sorts.

At our gardens at Flushing, L. I., N. Y., we are growing one of the choicest collection of Gladioli, and extend a cordial invitation to all flower lovers to visit our gardens.

Please Order before July 15th.

The only blue winter flowering Gladioli is

Gladiolus Atroviolaceus

A wild specie growing in the mountains of Asia Minor. Our claims for this beautiful blue Gladiolus are that it can be had in bloom as early as Christmas or any time thereafter, or can be planted in a cold frame and flowered there in May, or may be planted out of doors, as it is perfectly hardy and flowers then the following June. The spike is slender, but rigid and grows to a height of 18 to 24 inches, and is solidly lined with narrow but beautiful flowers of an ultramarine blue. If forced slowly in a cool conservatory it produces a much stouter stem with more flowers and larger ones.

The bulbs will be delivered in July. They are small but plump and sound.

Grape Hyacinths

Ideal for naturalizing in all kinds of situations, and splendid for growing in shallow pans or pots.

In rockeries it is a gem. The individual blooms, which are globe shaped, nest around a slender graceful stem just as grapes do in a cluster, hence its name. The stalk grows 6 inches high.

Iris

With a proper selection of all classes of Iris one can enjoy these beautiful Fleur de lis in the garden from beginning of April until middle of July. We offer them here in rotation as they flower.

Iris Pumila

These charming dwarf irises grow from 6 to 18 inches high, have flowers in form like the well-known German iris, and bloom during March, April and May. They are just the ideal subject for the rock garden, and here they delight in dry sunny locations. In such places they should be massed to make the right effect. In the border they should be used as an edging plant, and, as they bloom so early, they also fit in the woods, where they are best planted on raised situations, between stones to produce drainage. The wall gardens can be enriched with them as they will do splendidly in small pockets of soil. Allow 6 inches of space.

German Iris

The most popular of all, on account of their easy culture. The flowers of these have the true fleur-de-lis-form, with broad sword-like leaves, which are either entirely erect or gracefully drooping. The flowers are all deliciously fragrant, large and handsome, more or less veined in the falls, and showing in the centre of the lower petals a beard of either primrose or orange. The colors are rich, effective and incomparable. They love a sunny situation, and seek the sun to such a degree that the rhizomatous roots are often found above the surface of the soil, and no attempt should then be made to cover them. German iris should be given a space of at least 3 feet, so that a plant can develop properly. This is the ideal class for the border, shrubbery and landscape effect. If planted around ponds or lakes they should be placed well above the water-level. By planting hardy asters between these iris a second flowering effect in the fall may be had in the same spot. While our list is limited to a certain number of sorts, we are sure that every one of them is meritorious and pleasing.

Pallida Dalmatica. The finest of all German irises. Both foliage and flower are most distinct, and far superior to any other sort. The leaves are broad, massive, of a glaucous-green color and attain the unusual height of 3½ feet, while the flower-spikes grow 5 feet high, and show five to six enormous, but elegantly formed, flowers of a most delicate clear lavender. It is the tallest of all the German irises, has flowers of unusual size, and produces them so freely that a large mass of them in bloom is undoubtedly the richest effect ever produced in a garden. We have seen this variety used as a hedge to border garden paths, and we must admit that we were enraptured with this setting and recommend it for imitation. We are pleased to possess an unusually fine stock of this great variety, and can offer extra strong plants (with several eyes).

Variegated Leaved Iris

Most valuable species of German iris, being extremely attractive on account of its highly colored leaves, which are so showy in a border or rockery. We recommend these strongly, as they help to brighten a garden when there are few flowers to make it cheerful.

Iris Pallida Folia Variegata. Foliage is glaucous green, with broad bands of creamy yellow, every leaf being well marked. It is of free growth, and when well established attains a height of 2 to 2½ feet and is very attractive. The flowers are of a soft lavender.

Each, $.50; doz., $5.00

Iris Sibirica

A very hardy iris, differing from the others in its fine narrow foliage, from which rise a great number of slender tall flower-spikes, bearing medium-sized flowers in great profusion. It will do well in moist situations and will rapidly increase. It flowers after the German iris, and should be given 18 inches of space.

- Sibirica. Grows 3 feet high, with purple-blue flowers..... Each, $.15; doz., $1.50
- — Alba. Flowers white, veined pale lilac..... Each, .15; doz., 1.50
- — Orientalis. Rich violet blue; very free, and one of the best. Each, .20; doz., 2.00

Japanese Iris

The grandeur of these irises surpasses any written description that we could give of them. The large flat flowers measure from 8 to 10 inches in diameter, with a breadth of petal of 4 inches; the prevailing colors are white and every shade of lavender and blue, with some shades running into rose; a beautiful halo of blue or violet surrounds an orange blotch in the centre of the flower, illuminating thereby the whole.

On account of the unusually difficult Japanese names we have substituted numbers for names.

Two Remarkable New Hardy Lilies from China

They are perfectly hardy, extremely beautiful and sweetly fragrant.

Lilium Myriophyllum (collected by Mr. E. H. Wilson in Northwestern China). In our estimation this is not only one of the most important introductions within the last five years, but constitutes one of the finest lilies in existence. Its great points of advantage are (1) that above all it is absolutely hardy and does not require the care and attention that other lilies do; (2) it can be forced just as readily as grown out of doors, and thus will some day supplant the Easter Lily; and (3) that it can be readily increased here and can be made an American Lily.

From the point of beauty it excels other sorts, inasmuch as the foliage is extremely graceful, being narrow and drooping, and surrounds the wiry stem entirely. The buds are distinct, inasmuch as they are shaped like a torpedo, and nothing is more interesting than to watch the opening of the bud. The flower, when fully open, presents a long trumpet of great substance, and shows a white, slightly suffused with pink, and with a beautiful band-like shading of canary yellow through the centre of each petal, extending part way up. Its fragrance is original and pleasing, reminding one of the Jasmine, and lacking the heavy odor of most other lilies. Its flowering season out of doors is in July. Height, 3½ feet.

Awarded a gold medal by the Massachusetts Horticultural Society and a First class Certificate by the Royal International Exhibition, London, 1912.

Each, $1.50; Doz., $15.00

Lilium Sargentiae. Another find of Mr. E. H. Wilson, the renowned plant collector. A very strong growing lily, which when well established often attains a height of 6 to 8 feet. The flowers vary in number, from 5 to 10 on a stalk, and in size and shape resemble a good Easter Lily. The outer part of the petal is greenish white shaded purple, while the inside is of purest white with a tint of citron in the centre.

The flowers have a pleasing fragrance. The flowering season is toward end of July, a little later than Lilium Myriophyllum. The foliage is more robust and exactly like Lilium Harrisii.....Each, $1.50 doz., $15.00

On account of the flowering season of the above two lilies, the lily border can be had in bloom from May until November, thus giving us flowers in a month, where previously we had no varieties to produce blooms.

American Grown Hardy Lilies

It is our aim at all times to encourage American-grown native plants and flowers, and under the above heading we wish to offer, as a nucleus for fancy lilies, two of what we consider as beautiful as can be found in the whole collection of lilies. We can assure our friends that the American-grown bulbs are far more satisfactory than either the Japan or Holland grown, and, above all, we can furnish them in much stronger bulbs, not lifted from the ground until they are wanted for orders. Such lilies must give satisfaction, and herein again is manifested our aim to show "Heatherhome Qualities."

Lilium Hansonii

A very early blooming variety and exceedingly beautiful, which grows 3 to 4 feet high, bears massive flowers of a rich golden yellow, heavily spotted black. It is one of the rare sorts found in gardens, for up to now imported bulbs have proved exceedingly unsatisfactory. The flowering season is between June and July, and we offer these at the remarkable attractive price of—

Each, $.50; per doz., $5.00; per 100, $35.00, in extra large bulbs.

Lilium Henryii

An Original Yellow Speciosum

Too much cannot be said in praise of this lily. Its constitution is unequalled. It is extremely free flowering, reaching a height of 6 or more feet when established and bearing over 20 flowers, which are of a rich deep orange yellow, well set up by a foliage which is of deep green. It is one of the most remarkable lilies ever introduced and one which we can confidently recommend. Flowering season from August to September. We offer two sizes of bulbs as follows:

Mammoth bulbs, each, $.75; per doz., $8.00; per 100, $65.00

Extra large bulbs, each, $.60; per doz., $6.65; per 100, $45.00

Lilies for Forcing

Lilium Harrisii

The True Old-Fashioned Strain

Our reputation on the reliability of this strain is now completely established and attested by the fact that the supply never equalled the demand, and that each season "Heatherhome quality" is the one predominating feature of these lilies. We control the entire output of a painstaking grower, a man who has been a lily grower for fifty years and who knows lilies. We can never secure from him all that we wish, for he will not grow one bulb more than he can personally supervise. The plants grown from our bulbs have proven absolutely clean and healthy, with a sturdy growth and a splendid constitution. We can furnish hundreds of references from parties who have grown our lilies and recommend them.

Cold Storage Lilies

These cold-storage lilies have proven a boon to the gardener, for with them he can have lily flowers any time of the year. Here, again, the "Heatherhome quality" is plainly visible; and it is proven, for in a remarkably short time we have built up an enviable reputation on this class of bulbs, and it is not more than natural that we should, for we pay infinite attention to our sources of supply. Cold-storage lilies require about ninety days to get them into bloom, and when received they must be potted immediately and placed into heat.

For the convenience of our patrons we have all our cases contain 100 bulbs to the case, and these cases have been packed in Japan for cold-storage purpose exclusively.

Lilium Giganteum. Size, 7-9.....	Per case of 100 bulbs, $15.00
Lilium Giganteum. Size, 8-10.....	Per case of 100 bulbs, 20.00
Lilium Spec. Rubrum. Size, 8-9.....	Per case of 100 bulbs, 15.00
Lilium Spec. Melpomene. Size, 8-9.....	Per case of 100 bulbs, 15.00
Lilium Spec. Album. Size, 8-9.....	Per case of 100 bulbs, 22.00
Lilium Spec. Album. Size, 9-11	Per case of 100 bulbs, 30.00

These charges are fixed charges for the entire season and do not vary. We do not offer Lilium Auratum, because this variety does not keep in cold storage.

Lily of the Valley—Fresh Stock

In this we offer an exceptionally fine strain, which has proven far superior to any other offered. Deliveries are made during November or December.

Lilies of the Valley—Cold Storage Pips

Every gardener must have realized before this that the varying of quality is the one risky feature with growing Lilies of the Valley. It is of great importance, therefore, for the gardener to positively know that when he orders this class of material from his dealer he will receive the best quality—the ideal quality. "Heatherhome quality" is that quality which no gardener need question, for our sole endeavor is to please the critical expert, for he needs the best.

The demand for our Lilies of the Valley is constantly increasing, for the quality recommends itself.

It is due again to the fact, that we know the sources of supply, not the middle dealer—but the grower. He knows as well as we do that only by "distinctive quality" can we prosper.

Our pips are packed in cases of 250, 500 and 1000. Not less than 250 pips can be shipped at any one time. We book orders to be executed at regular intervals, and pay strict attention to the dates of shipment.

6 Bulbs at dozen rates; 25 at 100 rates; 250 at 1000 rates

Ornithogalum Umbellatum

(STAR OF BETHLEHEM)

One of the best subjects for naturalizing. Will not only acclimatize, but steadily increase. Ideal for grass in woods or roadsides. The small white star-shaped flowers appear in large umbels and are, therefore, very showy.....Per 100, $.75; per 1000, $5.00

Puschkinia Libanotica

The most gorgeous of all the bulbous flowers. For naturalizing, for carpet effects, for rockeries or hardy borders, we do not know of any that in color, beauty and effect can approach this lovely flower. The plant belongs to the Scilla family, but has little resemblance to it. The flower is more like a broadened Hyacinth, grows on a stout stem, and when planted in clumps of 25 or more it is like a perfect carpet. The color is of that wonderful light blue which adorns the cover of our spring seed book. A true delft blue.

The flowers open slowly, and the effect remains longer than with any of the other spring-flowering bulbsPer 100, $1.00; per 1000, $9.00

Turban Ranunculus

They are those beautiful double rose-like Buttercups which appear in all colors and which florists show in their windows in April and May. They are of easy culture, but require to be grown in cold frames if wanted to bloom in the spring. Unsuitable for pot culture. The bulbs can easily be stored away during the winter, and if planted out in the garden in May will produce an abundance of flowers during mid-summer.

Scilla (Squill)

All of the following varieties are splendid for naturalizing, because they will flower in shady places, where almost all other flowers will die. As they are very inexpensive they can be used by the thousand. * have bells like small Hyacinths, forming long and graceful spikes. The flowers of the Campanulata family are a bit larger and brighter than those of the Nutans family.

Hardy Perennial Flowers

It is comparatively easy to grow many (not all) of the most popular perennials from seed, but very little enlightenment has the gardening public received in this direction through the Garden Guides or Seed Books. The latter, in fact, are thoroughly misleading by not only offering seeds of sorts, which are almost impossible to grow from seed, but by suggesting that these seeds can be sown at seasons of the year when it is utter folly to sow perennials, as nothing can result, causing disappointment and a waste of money. Every up-to-date Fall book, issued about September 1, contains a complete offer of seeds of perennial flowers, with the suggestion that if sown then, flowers may be had the following year. Such a statement misrepresents the proved knowledge of the best expert gardeners.

It is our aim to instruct, not to mislead.

With the exception of a few (very few indeed) perennials, such as will be specially designated in this list, all hardy flowers should be sown out of doors between May 15th and July 15th. It is much more result producing to sow seeds from May 15th till July 1st than to sow from July 1st till July 15th. The sowing of perennial flowers requires intelligent care.

Wherever a frame is available, this is the ideal place to sow perennial seeds. Those who have no frame would do well to establish one as they can be purchased now, completely finished, ready to be erected in a moment's notice in the garden. The soil must be thoroughly prepared by spading and pulverizing, and with it should be embodied well-decayed stable manure. After the surface has been thoroughly raked and smoothed it should be pressed down with a board. To be able to recognize seedlings quickly, separate each space by thin stakes, place a wooden label with the name of the variety upon it at the front of each space and then sow the seed thinly upon the surface of the smoothed soil.

Next proceed by sifting some of the lightest soil mixed with sharp sand or leaf mould over the seed so it will be covered about $\frac{1}{4}$ inch.

After this water the bed carefully with a fine rose, holding the spout upward so the water will descend in the shape of rain.

Then place the sash upon the frame and cover the glass with either dark-colored muslin, or whitewash or wet mud so as to produce shade. On every bright day, after nine o'clock in the morning until three in the afternoon, lift the sash on one end to the extent of 4 inches so the air can circulate freely under the sash. Every morning, shortly after the sash has been raised, water the bed carefully. Always use a fine rose to prevent the seed from being washed away. It will be less than six days before most of the seeds we offer have germinated. Once they are up more air must be given, and just as soon as they are sufficiently strong they should be transplanted into a special bed, which has previously been spaded and enriched; Here the young plants are given from 3 to 6 inches of space and some arrangement must be perfected to shade the plants during the sunny hours. The best arrangement we find is as follows: We try to have this special bed about 36 inches wide and about 6 to 8 feet long, we erect a stout stake 3 feet high on each corner and spread from end to end a sheet of burlap. From September 1st till the 15th (not later) these young plants should be placed in their permanent location. It is quite essential that they are able to make a new set of roots and to establish themselves thoroughly before winter sets in, as otherwise frost would lift them from the ground and they would perish.

Garden enthusiasts who are interested in hardy perennials will find with us the most complete and up-to-date list of hardy plants offered anywhere.

As we give most comprehensive descriptions of perennials under the heading of plants we take the liberty of restricting the descriptions below to a certain extent.

Perennial seeds must be fresh to germinate well, a fact which gives "Heatherhome Seeds" Distinction in Quality.

Our offer below contains only such varieties which grow readily from seeds, otherwise we could increase the number of sorts to twice as many. Equally cautious has been our selection to avoid species which are not hardy in the east or north or which are of little merit.

Novelty 1914

8687. Delphinium (Rev. E. Lascelles)

One of the finest varieties of hardy larkspurs, introduced a few years ago in England. The flowers are large and double, and of a beautiful deep blue with white centre. Not all the seedlings of any Delphinium come true, but a good percentage may be expected from the above seed. The remainder of the seedlings should produce some choice hybrids. Pkt., $.50

BIENNIAL VARIETIES

These require a somewhat different treatment from the perennial sorts, inasmuch as when they are transplanted from the seed-bed they should be planted in a frame, where they can be wintered over. A space of 8 inches must be given each plant in the frame. Early the following Spring they should be planted where they are wanted. They only serve that one season.

Sweet William

A biennial only, but which sows itself, thus appearing from year to year anew. Sweet Williams do not require to be sown in a frame, as the seeds readily germinate out of doors, but to have good sturdy plants they must be sown in May and transplanted in August.

Viola Cornuta (Tufted Pansies)

Although perennial, we suggest that seedlings are treated like the pansy. Tufted Pansies have a tendency to flower more freely, are perfectly hardy and live for years, and are particularly suitable for shady places in the garden or rockery. Our Summer Specialty: Perennial Seeds

Heatherhome Pansies

Professional growers recognize the Pansy as a biennial only, and cultivate it from that standpoint alone, sowing the seeds in frames during July and wintering the young plants in the same frames with sashes as protection.

Such plants are ready to bloom the following April, and will continue to bloom all season.

But with the non-professional grower they are considered an annual and treated as such. Seeds may then be sown in a hotbed in March or out of doors in April. If the latter method is adopted, choose a semi-shady spot and one which is fairly cool. When large enough the seedlings may be transplanted to stand 6 inches apart, and treated thus they will come into bloom in July and are at their best during the Fall. Pansies are flowers in which quality tells all, and to produce seeds of quality means a great deal more than the average layman appreciates. It takes years to develop a perfect strain and unusual vigilance to keep it so. There is no finer quality of pansies in existence than we are offering and we defy competition.

Pansies delight in semi-shaded, cool locations, and they must be kept supplied with moisture during the hot months of the year.

3500. Pansy "Heatherhome's Pride"

If you wish to enjoy pansies of infinite perfection in form, coloring and size, we offer you under the above title the choicest product of the universe. We take no liberties with adjectives, but know of no expression more fitting for the grandeur of this magnificent strain. Every flower is a gem; every plant a picture to behold. It is a blending of every imaginable color and combinations of color.

Large Flowered Bedding Pansies

By using pansies in separate colors, planting one color in a spot, splendid and ideal effects are created in the garden. Long narrow borders planted with one color are much handsomer than if assortments are used. The pansies offered under this heading are especially selected for this purpose, are very freeblooming and come as nearly true to color from seed as human power can control it.

Heatherhome's "Easter" Sweet Peas

AN ENTIRELY NEW STRAIN OF WINTER-FLOWERING SWEET PEAS OFFERED NOW FOR THE FIRST TIME AND EXCLUSIVELY BY US

This strain originated with a New England florist of repute. It differs from all other Winter-flowering Sweet Peas in size of bloom, number of blooms to a stem, length of stem and season of sowing and blooming.

Season of Sowing. Month of October only.

Size of Bloom. Nearly as large as the best out-of-door grown Spencer bloom.

Number of Blooms to a Stem. In this respect alone it excels all other strains, as the stems average four giant flowers with occasionally five to a single stem.

Length of Stem. The average length is 16 inches and in their prime 20 to 24 inches is nothing unusual. This fact alone makes this strain the most valuable for cut flowers. The stem is stout and straight.

Season of Blooming. The first flowers will appear early in March, while the main crop is from the latter part of March until the end of May. When you consider that Zvolanek's strain of Winter-flowering Sweet Peas has passed its prime and the Spencer sorts not yet in their prime during the months just named, this new strain fills a gap to perfection, and it is therefore the ideal Sweet Pea for Easter.

All orders booked for this novelty will not be executed until September, just previous to sowing.

We supply the originator's original stock, seed only which we are confident will give superior results.

We confess a pardonable pride that we have been able to link the name of "Heatherhome" with this important novelty, of which the two varieties offered below are only the forerunners of what we predict to become one of the grandest classes of Sweet Peas in existence.

10000. — — "Easter Pink." The same identical coloring as the well-known "Blanche Ferry."

10005. — — "Easter White." Of purest glistening white; an ideal color for Easter.

New Winter Flowering Sweet Peas

Sweet Peas "Yarrowa"

A wonderful new strain of Winter Flowering Sweet Peas, exhibited during the last International Flower Show at New York City, March, 1914, and awarded a silver medal. This strain was originated in Australia, and has the distinct form of being a double Spencer of unusual size.

Seeds sown even in September produce flowers by the middle of December, and the plants are in a constant sheet of color during the entire winter.....Pkt. (10 seeds), $.50

Sweet Peas "Concord"

Another new Winter Flowering Sweet Pea of Spencer form also originated in Australia, and so far has never been shown in America. It is supposed to be the equal of the best grown outdoor Spencer, which will begin to bloom in the hot-house in December, and continue to flower all winter long.....Pkt. (10 seeds), $.50

Sweet Peas—"Original Telemley Strain" of Winter Flowering Sweet Peas

It is claimed by the Australians that the Telemley strain is much superior to what is known as the Zvolanek strain, and we take pleasure in offering this seed in packets containing 25 seeds, at.....$.25

Winter-flowering Sweet Peas

The strain originated by Mr. Zvolanek and now so universally popular. We offer the seed only under this classification as we do not wish to recommend them for sowing out of doors. If sown in August flowers may be had in December.

We refer with pride to our exclusive introduction of an entirely new strain of Easter-flowering sweet peas (see Novelties 1914), which we know will become equally popular.

“Heatherhome” Cinerarias

Most gardeners whom we have met in the past have complained of the declining perfection of strains of this flower, and we are therefore doubly proud of being able to offer a strain which we know is the acme of perfection, for the grower is one of the most painstaking men, who realizes the importance of pure, perfect strains. In former years he furnished seeds to a few intimate friends only, but allows us now a limited quantity for general distribution.

“Heatherhome” Cyclamen

With every possible confidence we can recommend our strains to be the equal, if not the superior, of the finest exhibition sorts.

Our seeds are not only absolutely fresh, but we re-pick the seeds for size and plumpness, which means 100 per cent. exhibition plants.

“Heatherhome” Exhibition Giants

Every feature desired in an exhibition plant, with the additional feature of gigantic flowers in pure pleasing shades, is the prevalent character of these flowers.

9850. Leptosyne Stillmanni. Though this is an annual, it is used extensively for flowering in conservatories during the Winter. The plant resembles a dwarf cosmos in growth, foliage and form of flower. The blooms, which can be cut on stems 18 inches long, and which are of a most pleasing yellow, are borne in boundless profusion during the entire Winter.

Erica (Heather)

Our Leading Specialty

The following varieties we can furnish for Fall delivery.

- Erica Barbata. A strong rugged grower, forming a fine plant; flowers white, very free. February to March. 5-inch pots, each, $1.50
- Blanda. A beautiful small-growing heath, flowers tube-shaped in terminal heads, white or light pink, when young turning deep rose. October. 4-inch pots, each, $1.00
- Codonoides Veitchii. A strong free-growing variety, a form of and an improvement on E. arborea, which is a native of Southern Europe; it is very free blooming, white; a good commercial sort. February to March. 8-inch pots, each, $3.00
6-inch pots, each, 1.50
- Cupressiana. This is a gem; one of our very best winter-flowering ericas. Of moderate compact growth, requires little pinching, and, in a 3½- or 4-inch pot, it is one of our finest small Easter ericas; also a beautiful plant in a larger size, foliage bright green, and covered with large globular, rich pink flowers. February to April. 3½-inch pots, each, $.75
- Edward VII. We offer four new ericas of French origin, crosses of E. Wilmoriana and Cavendishii. They are all well adapted to this country, and are decided improvements. Edward VII. is a splendid erect-growing sort, foliage good, dark-green flowers, tube shaped flowers, on tall spikes, rose with white tips, probably the earliest of these four sorts. December to February. 5-inch pots, each, $2.50
3½-inch pots, each, $1.00
- Globularia Major. A fall-flowering heath, of good compact habit, literally covered with small bright rose flowers. October to November. 3½-inch pots, $.50
- Hybrida (syn. Cylindrica). An erect compact sort, dark green foliage, flowers tubular, 1 inch long, bright red. March to April. 6-inch pots, $3.00
- Perspicua. An excellent species, and one bound to become popular. Upright in growth, foliage good, flowers in dense terminal clusters, tubular; tubes 1 to 1½ inches long; slender, delicate pale pink shading, almost white. March to April. 3½-inch pots, $1.00
- Persoluta Alba. A handsome free-growing sort, flowering from mid- to late winter, forming garlands of bloom a foot or more long; flowers small bell-shaped; very free, pure white. February to April, ideal for Easter. 6-inch pots, $1.50
- Rosea. More compact, free blooming, deep pink. 6-inch pots, $1.50
- Perfecta. Erect form much earlier than species; very free, delicate pink, sometimes runs to deep pink. January to April 3½-inch pots, $.50
- President Carnot. A Wilmoriana Cavendishii cross, a bushy erect grower; flowers on tall spikes tube shaped, free, bright pink. December to January. 5-inch pots, $2.50
3½-inch pots, $1.00
- Felix Faure. Cross of Wilmoriana-Cavendishii of good, strong habit; flowers tubular on spikes, bright pink, very free. December to February. 5-inch pots, $2.50
3½-inch pots, $1.00

Ericas (Continued)

- Regerminans. Dwarf-growing flowers small and much crowded toward the ends of the irregular spikes; white to pinkish white. November to December. 3½-inch pots, $.50
- — Ovata. A much stronger and more open grower than the species, flowering on long spikes; large, globular, free bright pink; sweet scented, earlier than E. regerminans; one of the best for Thanksgiving. October to November. 5-inch pots, $1.50
- Sindryana. Of rather delicate growth; pale green, flowering on erect spikes, free, flowers tubular; short, rich pink-white tip; when well done a beautiful sort. April.
4-inch pots, $1.25
- Translucens. It is a pleasure to be able to offer home propagated stock of this variety. It is of compact, erect spike-like growth, rich green, flowers in dense clusters toward the ends of growths; tubular long and slender; beautiful bright pink; one of our finest Easter ericas. March to April. 6-inch pots, $2.50
- Triomphe de Veulunes. Another Wilmoriana-Cavendishii cross; good erect grower; flowers on long spikes; tubular, pale salmon pink. February. 5- inch pots, $2.50
3½-inch pots, $1.00
- Mediterranea. An erect, compact grower, native of Southern Europe; flowers free toward the ends of growths; deep pink, the almost black anthers protruding; a rather showy sort; must be kept cool. March to April. 6-inch pots, $1.50
- Melanthera. The white Christmas heather, a strong upright grower of good habit. At Christmas it is white, showing the black anthers when allowed to develop cool (40° to 45° F.). Blooming later, in January or February, it is a most beautiful pink, a peculiar color. A variety now probably grown more than any other. December to February.
5-inch pots, $1.25; 6-inch pots, $2.50; specimens, $5.00 to $10.00
- Wilmoriana. Compact in growth; flowers on spikes; tubular bright pink; a well-known form. October to November 6-inch pots, $2.00

Acacias

We are the recognized leaders of growing an extensive list of Acacias in America.

We have a limited stock of many more varieties than offered here, as they are intended for growing on and ultimate introduction in future years.

- Balleyana. A tall spreading plant, which will attract attention at any time, foliage bipinnate of a beautiful bluish hue, flowers on long axillary racemes, yellow. This is one of our finest greenhouse acacias, especially in a large plant. February to March.
Specimen, standard, $10.00
- Cultriformis. A strong erect grower, leaves triangular, pointed, bluish, flowers in small racemes, rich yellow. A very distinct species, and, when well flowered, a beautiful plant. Specimen bush, $7.50
- Cordata. A comparatively dwarf, compact grower, of peculiar appearance, flowers axillary in small heads, but very free; yellow; a favorable Easter sort. March and April.
4-inch pots, $1.50
- Drummondii. One of the most handsome greenhouse acacias; rather dwarf in habit; leaves pinnate, dark green; flowers pale lemon in long spikes; very free. March and April.
3½-inch standard, $1.50. 6-inch pots, $3.50
- Glaucescens. Of free, graceful habit, foliage ovate, linear, glaucous. The bluish effect of the foliage makes this a very attractive variety; free blooming, yellow.
8 inch standard. $7.50. 5-inch pots, $3.00

Our Specialty—Heather and Acacias

Acacias (Continued)

- Hetrophylla. A rather delicate grower, of graceful habit, and, with a little timely pinching, can be made a beautiful plant; flowers rich yellow, free, being a mass of color when in bloom. February to March. 5-inch pots, $3.00
- Juniperina. A strong erect grower, foliage stiff, awn-like; forms a beautiful plant; especially a standard, a free bloomer, lemon yellow. March to April. 4-inch pots, $1.50
- Longifolia. This is one of our very best winter flowering plants. The type we offer was selected, about twenty years ago, from an importation of A. longifolia from England as being distinct, and today this type is recognized as one of the very best acacias. Of strong, graceful habit, leaves linear, light green, should be pinched to keep it in shape, flowers in close racemes from axils of leaves; very free; yellow. February to April.
Specimen bush, $7.50; 6-inch $3.00
- Magnifica. This is a stronger and of more stiff growth than the above, leaves larger and dark green; flowers in large racemes from the axils of the leaves. When well flowered a magnificent plant. February to April. 4-inch pots, $1.50
- Linifolia. A variety obtained by us from Australia; of moderate growth; leaves awn-shaped, about 1 to 1½ inches long; dark green flowers in racemes, a number appearing close together on a branch, causing somewhat the appearance of a "bottle brush"; yellow. October to November. 6-inch pots, $2.50
- Linearis. This sort also was obtained from Australia. It is a strong free-grower; leaves linear, very narrow, 3 to 4 inches long; stems somewhat reddish; flowers in small heads; free light yellow, blooms at irregular times 10-inch standards, $10.00
- Ovata. Of moderate growth; erect, leaves small ovate, free-blooming, yellow; valuable on account of its earliness. A greenhouse species. November to December.
5-inch pots, $2.50. 6-inch pots, $5.00
- Platyptera. Of peculiar appearance, without foliage, but the stems and branches are winged, answering the purpose of foliage; of good erect habit, and, when well grown, very free flowering. It is an unusually interesting plant and should be better known; deep yellow. December 8-inch pots, $3.50 4-inch pots, $1.50
- Paradoxa. A strong rugged grower of beautiful dark green appearance, probably more grown than any of the acacias for commercial use; free blooming, being a mass of yellow at Easter; easily handled. February to April. Specimen, $5.00; 7-inch pots, $3.00
- Podalyriaefolia. Of moderate growth, erect, leaves ovate, of a beautiful silver blue color. I have found this sort to do best kept under glass all summer in full exposure to the sun. When well established it blooms free; bright yellow. February to March.
Standard 6-inch pots, $4.00
- Pulchella. A strong grower, with many small thorns, leaves small pinnate; bright green plant, well covered with foliage; flowers in small heads; very free, rich yellow; makes a splendid standard. April. Standards, $5.00; bush, 4.00
- Riceana. A particularly handsome acacia, of strong free habit, leaves in clusters, linear, sharp dark green. As the plant gets to a good size it forms a graceful weeping habit; flowers free, lemon yellow. March. 6-inch pots, $2.50. 7-inch pots, $4.00
- Spiralis. A tall erect grower, leaves linear lanceolate, dark green flowers in heads, yellow; makes a beautiful standard or pyramid. March and April. 6-inch pots, $3.50
Pyramids, 7-inch pot, $5.00

Various Greenhouse Flowering Plants

- Aotus Gracillima. An old "New Holland" plant that will prove of much value to our winter-flowering cool greenhouse plants; of slender growth, requires pinching when young to induce a compact habit; the numerous long graceful spikes are well covered with small yellow and red pea-shaped flowers. March to April. 5-inch pots, $2.50
- Bauera Rubioides. Another Australian greenhouse plant that has been overlooked for many years. It is of exceptional value, not only to the private grower, but to the commercial man as well; it is of neat compact habit, leaves small, in whorls, branches slender, very free flowering, bright pink. It is bound to become a valuable Easter flowering plant. February to April. 5-inch pots, $2.50
- Beaufortia Splendens. An elegant cool greenhouse plant, of moderate growth, leaves small, ovate, $\frac{1}{2}$ inch long; forms a compact plant; flowers red. February to April. 6-inch pots, \$2.50
- Boronia Elatior. A beautiful late winter-flowering plant, of compact habit; even when not in bloom it is very attractive; foliage bright green, flowers in dense clusters along the end of ripened growths; bright rosy carmine. Must not be forced, as heat tends to start top growth, which in a way cover the flowers. As an Easter plant it is of exceptional value. March and April. 6-inch pots, $2.50
- Calythrix Tetragona. An elegant little heath-like Australian plant for the cool greenhouse; flowers white or pinkish white, with many curious hair-like appendages; free. March to April. 5-inch pots, $2.50
- Callistemon Coccineus. A tall open-growing "bottle-brush," with large scarlet flowers. March to April. 7-inch pots, $3.00
- Chorizema Cordatum Splendens. One of the most satisfactory Chorizemas. As a winter-flowering plant it deserves to be known far better than it is; either for private or commercial use. Growth long and slender, but, trained over a wire form to keep it in shape, it makes an Easter plant that always attracts attention; it can also be had much earlier in bloom if necessary. Leaves broadly ovate, holly-like, dark green; flowers in small spikes; pea-shaped, yellow and red; very free. February to April. 5-inch pots, $2.50
- Chironia Exifera. A beautiful little plant of somewhat carnation-like growth, producing small pink flowers in abundance from July to frost. It is very useful as a summer-flowering pot plant, or with other summer flowers in the border. . . . 4-inch pots, $.75
- Choisya Ternata. A splendid old greenhouse plant that should be more grown; leaves ternate, leathery, dark green; flowers pure white in heads; sweet scented. February to April. 5-inch pots, $2.50
- Correa Alba. A free-growing correa, rooting easily from cuttings; used principally for grafting better varieties of correas or eriostemons; greyish, ovate leaves and greenish-white flowers. March to April. 4-inch pots, $2.50
- Coronilla Glauca. A beautiful cool greenhouse flowering shrub, of free growth, requires a little pinching to keep it in shape. Leaves compound, slightly glaucous; flowers in umbels, bright yellow, very free, sweet scented. Of commercial value. February to April. 4-inch pots, $1.50. 6-inch pots, $2.50
- Crowea Saligna. An elegant little Australian plant, of neat growth, flowers bright pink in the axils of the leaves; free. October. 4-inch pots, $1.50

- Diosma Ericoides. A dwarf heath-like plant from South Africa; for the cool house; numerous small white flowers from the axils of the leaves. The foliage when crushed emits a delicious perfume. March and April. 4-inch pots, $1.50 5-inch pots, $2.00
- Capitata. Of more spreading growth than the above, flowering in small terminal heads; deep pink. February to March. 4-inch pots, $1.50
- Epacris paludosa. A bushy compact grower; erect spikes, white flowers set close to the stem. Can be had in bloom at Christmas. December to January. 4-inch pots, $1.00
- Fabiana Imbricata. A very pretty soft wooded heath-like plant, of erect rigid growth, flowers pure white tubular, short in a spike-like arrangement. March to April. 4-inch pots, $1.50
- Genista Canariensis. A compact much-branched well-known greenhouse shrub; flowers very free; erect spikes, bright yellow. March to April. bush form, 6-inch pots, $1.50 standards, 8-inch pots, $5.00
- Racemosus. One of the well-known forms of genista; an ideal Easter plant; flowers bright yellow on shorter and more drooping spikes than the preceding; can also be had in bloom much earlier. February to April. bush form, 6-inch pots, $1.50 standards, 8-inch pots, $5.00
- Gnidia Pinifolia. A fine old-fashioned heath-like greenhouse plant, easily handled in summer, but in the fall and winter requires care in watering, as it is apt to mildew; flowers in umbellate heads; creamy white, free, sweet scented. March to April. 5-inch pots, $2.00
- Hovea Elliptica. An old Australian greenhouse favorite, of rather straggly growth, foliage ovate dark green, flowers pea-shaped, of a most beautiful blue, a color rather unusual in winter-flowering plants. April. 4½-inch pots, $1.50
- Kunzea Corifolia. An excellent greenhouse flowering plant, of free growth, producing small axillary white flowers in abundance. March to April. 6-inch pots, $2.50
- Leptospermum Bullatum. A tall free-growing greenhouse plant, of easy culture; leaves small, greyish green; flowers very free white; should be kept cool during winter (40° to 45° F.) and not forced. March to April. 8-inch pots, $3.50
- Letrosperrum Scoparia Nicolli. A beautiful new red variety which should be in every collection. 3½-inch pots. $1.50
- Pentaptergium Serpens. A rare greenhouse shrub of merit; the somewhat drooping branches are well clothed with thick, leathery dark green ovate leaves; young growths reddish, flowers drooping from underside of branches, scarlet. January to March. 2-inch pots, $.50
- Polygala Dalmaisiana. Another old-fashioned greenhouse plant, of rather open growth; requires pinching to keep it in shape. Beautiful purplish pea-shaped flowers in small clusters from the end of matured growths. March to April. 4-inch pots, $1.50
- Protea Mellifera. This genus is now seldom seen in cultivation, although at one time they were very popular greenhouse specimens. This particular species, a native of South Africa, will be found an excellent greenhouse plant, of erect growth, beautiful light green lance-ovate leaves, stems reddish, when well pot-bound producing magnificent rosy pink flowers. March to April. 6-inch pots, $2.50

- Pultenaea Humilis. A rather straggly grower, flowering in compact heads from the ends, ripened growths, yellow and brown. March to April. 5-inch pots, $7.00
- Stricta. Of compact erect habit, leaves very small; forms a pretty plant; small pea-shaped flowers, yellow and red; free. March to April. 5-inch pots, $2.50
- Subumbellata. Of dwarf and very compact growth, leaves small; broadly ovate tips of branches reddish, forming a beautiful plant, but a shy bloomer; yellow. March and April. 5-inch pots, $1.00
- Westringia Rosmariniformis. A free-growing winter-flowering greenhouse plant; leaves small greyish; flowers white; free blooming. February to March. 7 inch-pots, $2.50

Grow Bulbs in Fiber

The growing of bulbs in the house for winter blooming is one of the most fascinating features of flower growing, as it brings cheer to the home and makes the winter days gay instead of dreary, and, above all, it brings nature close to us at a time we cannot see it out of doors. It has often been the means of restoring health to the sick, and of transforming sadness into cheerfulness, sorrow into joy. Let us have more of it. To the city dweller this kind of gardening should particularly appeal, but there is just one thing he finds difficult to obtain—the thing in which the world is richest—soil. What would you think if we told you that you need no soil—you can grow bulbs without it? Listen. As a substitute for soil we offer what is known as “Prepared Fiber,” a clean, odorless and sweetness-retaining moss-like material, which can be used successively for a number of years. It is light, holds moisture, contains a certain amount of plant food, is always sweet, and can be used in receptacles where there is no outlet for water.

Full detailed directions for use will be furnished with each purchase.
